Workshop Description

Everyone knows past events can have an effect on a person. What about how past events have affected and molded an entire generation? We'll look at the different generations in US Society including the Baby Boomers, Gen X, Gen Y (millennials), Gen Z and Gen Alpha. We'll analyze historical events and how they affected each group at important milestones in their lives. We'll look into positive traits of each generation, but also some possible pitfalls we are seeing, as well as how to use this information moving forward.

Presenter Information

Jennifer Winter has 25 years of classroom experience in secondary education teaching history, psychology and AP Psychology.
